

Ashesi Writing Center

Planning your Cover Letter

Cover letters, like all writings, call for planning before composition. At the planning or prewriting stage, you must first identify content for your cover letter. Possible sources include, but are not limited to, the organization's website, the job ad and your CV.

Use the table below to identify key information about the organization, the position and your qualifications/experience.

[illegible]